desire of the management to give every citizen of Akron equal opportunity.

Information concerning the booths and rental of the same may be obtained from any member of the committee. B. L. Dodge, chairman; R. M. Pillmore, Louis Loeb, W. T. Tobin, Chas. H. Baker, C. W. Kline and H. L. Snyder.

Official Program.

An elaborate program will be issued in a short time giving every feature of the fair, the time and location of every free attraction. These will be printed and distributed under the direction of those who have charge of the fair and will be official.

Guests of Fair.

Every newspaper man within 100 miles of Akron will receive an invitation to the fair. He will come as a guest and will be treated as the same in every sense of the word. Transportation will be furnished for both himself and wife, and they will be entertained at the local hotels without any expense to either.

On Exhibition.

The illustration, giving a perspective view of South Howard st. as it will appear after the decorations and awnings are arranged, was placed on exhibition in the show window of J. Koch & Co. today. The view of South Main st. is on exhibition in the show window of M. O'Neill & Co.

Notes.

The complete list of fine attractions will be given out in a few days. Attention has already been called to many of the acts, but there are more artists to be engaged. These will be announced in due season. A unique parade will be given each day, just previous to the balloon ascension. It was stated Monday night that the display of fireworks would surpass anything ever seen in this city. It will take every night of the fair, in a different location each evening.

Vehicles of all kinds and street cars will be kept off of the streets in the fair district from 7 to 11 o'clock each night. This will do away with all danger of accidents, giving the people a chance to fully enjoy the affair.

Reduced rates have been secured on all roads entering the city. It is fully expected that there will be 50,000 people visit Akron.

The Eighth Regiment band of 30 pieces, has been engaged for four days to furnish the concert music for the coming Street Fair.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only medicine known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, it is not a local ailment, but a disease of the system. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that fails to be cured. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. C. HENRY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

STORIES OF HEROISM.

SOME INCIDENTS OF THE CAMPAIGN IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Eliza Archard Conner Writes of the Bravery of the American Soldiers in the Orient—Eagerness of Officers and Men to Go Into Battle.

(Special Correspondence.)

MANILA, June 26.—The eagerness to fight of the American soldiers in this Philippine campaign I think must be something phenomenal. In some cases this desire for fight on the part of the soldiers is equalled by the enthusiasm, possibly on the part of their officers. Then there is duty work. The Nebraska regiment, whose colonel, the daring Stoenberg, was killed, came here last summer 1,200 strong, three full battalions. Now there is left only one battalion. The others? God rest their souls! The boys that remain say grimly, "If they keep here awhile longer, they will not have the trouble of sending any of us home." Their colonel's last words were, "Go ahead, boys!" They did it. Sometimes one's feeling is about equally divided between admiration for the daring success of the Americans and horror at the fate of their hapless Filipino enemies. Once when a detachment of our army was crossing a bridge over one of the small, swift streams of this country, the insurgents were entrenched on the other side. Hardly had the crossing begun when the bridge collapsed. A young lieutenant and 14 men were thrown on the wrong side of the stream, with no means of getting back. From the side where our troops were the major waved his hand to the lieutenant. It was a farewell, and the young officer read the thought that was in his superior's mind. He turned to his men.

LEADING THE CHARGE.

"Boys," said he, "we'll be in heaven or hell tonight. Doubletime! Charge!"

Mad with the lust of fighting and with the sense of their danger, the men obeyed and charged like furies. Against the intrenchments they hurled themselves, bayonets foremost. The wild charge struck panic into the Filipinos. They fled, the 14 Americans after them, yelling like madmen. The rest of this story is that those 14 men killed 17 Filipinos with their bayonets.

There are regiments here that have been in active service almost from the day they came. The Colorado men were actually suffering from boredom. They were sent to the front, and they were sent to the front. On that historic 18th of August, 1898, when Manila was surrendered, the Colorado were landed. They were brought from the ship in boats. So soon as they were within wading distance of the shore the men leaped from the boats and formed out there, cutting through the water in splendid line of battle. It was a glorious sight, and cheers rent the air as they advanced on Fort Malate and took it, dripping wet, as they were.

These are such stories as fill the soul with enthusiasm for our flag and country. I tell them to you because they are history of the Filipino insurrection you will never read them.

There is one that lingers in the mind with a strange pathos. On one of those fatal Sundays when the fighting about Manila was hottest the men of a certain company were sent to a certain point in an exposed position, and a large proportion of them were killed outright. Men as they loaded and fired saw their dearest friends, lifelong comrades sometimes, drop dead beside them. It maddened them with rage and pain as man after man fell they could not weep. They did not have time. Besides, it would have been unmanly. So they poured the fires of hell into the insurgents and cursed and swore like demons. One of their officers told me he never before or since heard such blistering and awful profanity as on that Sunday of battle.

The fight ended, and the dedicated company buried their fallen comrades. In the evening, when all was over and their duty done, they gathered in a group in the dazzling tropical moonlight to smoke and think. Perhaps then, with the thought of home, of their lost comrades, strong upon them, some among them suddenly remembered it was Sunday. They began to sing familiar hymns, these erstwhile profane blasphemers. There were good voices among them—sweet baritone, tenors and rich basses. With one accord they struck up "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Solenn and tender and thrilling it rose on the vibrant air.

Nearer, my God, to thee, nearer to thee, Even though it be a cross That I must bear.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

His Defect.

"I notice," said the observant boarder, "that the amount of money in circulation in the United States at present is $28,357,000,000."

"I wish," replied the cross eyed boarder, after taking an inventory of the contents of his pockets, "that you would lend me $28.25 to make up my share."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

London, Ex-Watering Place.

Time was when London was a watering place, whose wells, if not rivaling Bath or Harrogate, were widely famed and frequented by people from all quarters. In South London there was quite a number of spas—Lambeth wells, which sold water for a penny a quart and gave it to the poor for nothing; St. George's wells, Sydenham wells and Dulwich wells being the best known.

M. LABORI IS IMPROVED.

Two Men Under Arrest on Suspicion of Having Shot Him—More Details of the Affair.

RENNES, Aug. 15.—Further details regarding the shooting of M. Labori show that the sky was overcast when M. Labori left his house accompanied by Colonel Pignat and the latter's brother-in-law, M. Gasi. M. Labori was laughing and chatting with his companions when he was shot. The party was passing the Quai Richmond and was about to cross the Chateaubriand bridge, when a man hidden behind a wooden fence at the corner of the quay stepped out and fired at M. Labori.

The wounded man fell to the ground. He tried to rise, and put his hand to the wound in his back and brought the hand back covered with blood. As he lay there, with his clothes covered with the dust in which he had fallen, he said in a faint voice: "I beg you to give me my stick and my papers."

"Go and tell them," he added with a final effort, "to suspend the proceedings."

When Madame Labori came up she was sent to fetch a doctor, but not knowing the town she lost a good deal of time. At last she thought of going to the court and asking there for a military surgeon. Drs. Vidal and Reclus were at hand and at once accompanied her. They had the presence of mind to send gendarmes to the barracks for an ambulance with a stretcher and bearers.

For a time Mme. Labori held her husband's head in her lap. A medical man was finally taken to the house he had rented for the stay in Rennes.

Accounts of the shooting related by eyewitnesses differ considerably, especially respecting the appearance of the would-be murderer, of whom the following is the official description: "Twenty-five to 30 years; fat, peaked hat; dressed like a workman in blue blouse."

A force of gendarmes headed by M. Hennion, sub-chief of the secret police, is scouring the country in search of M. Labori's assailant and a company of infantry had been dispatched to surround and beat the wood where the man was supposed to be in hiding.

Two men were caught on suspicion of having done the shooting, one being on his way to Havre.

Labori was reported to be slightly improved.

M. Guerin still besieged.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The club of the Anti-Social League, in which M. Guerin, president of the league, and Max Regis, the noted Jew baiter and ex-mayor of Algiers, sought refuge from arrest on Saturday, were still besieged.

May Have New Regiments.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A special to The World from Washington says: Secretary Root has sent a telegram to governors of states asking for the names of two officers of each volunteer regiment in the Spanish war. As all regiments now ordered are fully officered these must be for new regiments which the administration contemplates raising.

It is thought very likely that orders for them will be issued early in the week.

William A. Campbell Found Shot.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 15.—William A. Campbell, ex-county superintendent of schools, ex-postmaster and a prominent merchant of the town of Shicklesbury, was found dead in an outhouse in the rear of his store. A revolver with one chamber empty was found by his side. Everything pointed to suicide, but the family of the dead man say he accidentally shot himself.
